FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

OPUS® USA Launches Off-Road Model: OPUS Outback®

OPUS® Camper USA has announced that they will be releasing the OPUS Outback this summer, their latest model designed for fully off-road camping.

The OPUS® Outback combines the luxury and space of the original OPUS® Camper with an upgraded, all-terrain chassis. New standard features include 42gl on-board water system, built-in shower and a slide out kitchen; everything you need for your off-road adventure.

The off-road design originated in Australia, driven by the extreme conditions of the Australian Outback. OPUS® Australia has already seen huge success with this model and with large forward orders racking up, the design is sure to be a success in the American market too.

The design upgrades include a chassis with independent torsion suspension, a 12" minimum ground clearance and an angled rear cut-out meaning the OPUS® Outback is ready to follow you wherever you choose to take it. Weighing in at just 2870lbs curb weight, the OPUS® Outback can be towed by most 6-cylinder SUV's and even has the option for a cargo rack or racking system on the roof to haul up to 700lbs of gear.

The OPUS® Outback sets up in less than 10 minutes, including the external slide-out kitchen with 4-burner gas stove and battery powered sink as well as the outside shower. Inside the camper, the leatherette club lounge offers a comfortable respite from the outdoors and the 8ft ceiling and large skylights make the camper bright and spacious. Two queen-sized beds are located at each end of the camper and the club lounge folds down to sleep a further two. The OPUS® Outback is also fully compatible with the innovative AIR OPUS® inflating tent upgrade, available on this model from September 2017.

OPUS® was developed to offer the comforts of a traditional RV in a good-looking, compact trailer. The OPUS® Outback takes this concept one step further, allowing you to travel further and take your basecamp with you wherever you choose to go, without compromising on luxury or comfort.
